

Streamlining the personnel security process

Personnel security investigations must be timely, fair, and according to federal regulations. Personnel Security solutions based on the Entellitrak platform for case management streamline personnel security and background investigations, optimizing processes and allowing agencies to work more efficiently. From the initial contact with a candidate all the way through the continuous evaluation of employees, activities are captured, tracked, and shepherded through the process. Here's an example of how the platform automates the personnel security process.

Investigation

The candidate is investigated by DCSA or an agency with delegated authority. Results are packaged and delivered to the agency.

Key activities include:

- All findings
- Reports of investigation

Onboarding

Approved candidates move to the onboarding stage to receive their PIV/CAC badge and IT access training to begin employment. The system can support self-reporting (SEAD 3) for all personnel with life events that change their suitability for their role.

Intake

Candidates are entered into the system to trigger vetting. Application details, record check results, and personal history data are added as they are uncovered. Key data includes:

- Person record and onboarding information
- SF85, SF85P, SF86
- Record checks
- Triage results
- Pre-screening

Adjudication

Data from intake and investigation is used to determine if the candidate will be suitable.

Key activities include:

- Suitability and eligibility review for clearance
- Assessment and decision

Continuous Vetting

Employees with sensitive positions or access to classified information are screened continuously. Automated record checks assist in this ongoing assessment. Incidents are tracked in near real-time, with concerning issues triggering alerts and prompting re-evaluation.

Make sure your personnel security procedures are modern, effective, and efficient. Be ready for continuous evaluation and empowered to handle the incoming data.
